

COOKIES POLICY

What are cookies

A cookie is a small file which is placed on your computer's hard drive and the cookie helps analyse web traffic or lets you know when you visit a particular website. Cookies allow web applications to respond to you as an individual. The web application can tailor its operations to your needs, likes and dislikes by gathering and remembering information about your preferences.

Further information about cookies can be found at <https://ico.org.uk/for-organisations/guide-to-pecr/cookies-and-similar-technologies/>

How we use cookies

We use traffic log cookies to identify which pages are being used. This helps us analyse data about web page traffic and improve our website in order to tailor it to customer needs. We only use this information for statistical analysis purposes. A cookie in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us.

You can choose to accept or decline cookies. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies if you prefer. This may prevent you from taking full advantage of the website. For more information see, 'How to manage Cookies' section below.

Which cookies do we use?

While we will endeavour to keep the list below updated, No Going Back site relies on many third-party services and the list may therefore become out of date if those services alter the cookies they use.

There are two types of cookies you may encounter when using this website:

- First party cookies: these are our own cookies, controlled by us and used to provide information about usage of our site. Please note that these Cookies exist to enable functionality on the website and not for advertising purposes.

Google Analytics:

These cookies are used to collect information about how visitors use our site. We use the information to compile reports and to help us improve our website. The cookies enable us to collect information in an anonymous form, including the number of visitors to the site and the pages they have visited.

- Third party cookies: these are cookies found in other companies' internet tools which we are using to enhance our site, for example Facebook or Twitter have their own cookies, which are controlled by them.

Please note that if you do choose to share content from No Going Back' website through any social media providers that we don't control the setting of these cookies and we recommend that you check the provider's website for further information.

How to manage Cookies
